CAUTION

On April 3, 2014, at approximately 12:10 p.m., two male subjects entered the Trustmark Bank located at 117 South Main Street, Petal, Mississippi, wearing motorcycle helmets with dark face shields and displaying handguns which they pointed at bank personnel. One subject approached a teller and demanded that she put money in a black bag, while the other subject canvassed the bank, telling everyone to get on their knees. After the teller put money from two drawers in the bag, she was told, at gunpoint, to get on her knees. The robber then cocked the gun in the back of her head. The robbers, one carrying the black bag containing cash, then fled the bank on foot, heading east. As the robbers were fleeing, the dye pack activated, causing the robbers to discard the bag and money.
